

State-by-State: Land Acquisition, Construction, and Repair and Rehabilitation Projects Would Be Prevented or Delayed by House Republicans

July 2015

The deep cuts in the Congressional Republicans' appropriation bills are a direct result of their decision to lock in funding cuts imposed by sequestration. Under the Republican budget framework discretionary funding levels in 2016 will be the lowest in a decade, adjusted for inflation. Sequestration was never intended to take effect: rather, it was supposed to threaten such drastic cuts to both defense and non-defense funding that policymakers would be motivated to come to the table and reduce the deficit through smart, balanced reforms. The President's Budget would reverse these cuts going forward, replacing the savings with commonsense spending and tax reforms in order to make investments important to families, the economy, and our national security.

Unfortunately, Congressional Republicans are taking a very different approach, shortchanging students, workers, our nation's health, and the economy. The following tables illustrate some of the impacts on conservation and National Parks projects that would result from the House Republican Department of the Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations Bill for FY 2016, compared to the President's Budget.
